COURSE DESCRIPTION

This Western Clinical Medicine survey course presents an overview of selected common diseases observed and treated in biomedicine including neurology and the nervous system, the gastro-intestinal and digestive systems.

The etiology, pathogenesis, differential diagnosis and first line of allopathic treatment will be presented and discussed with the emphasis on the clinical manifestations of the diseases. Instruction in the World Health Organization's international classification of disease (ICD-10 codes).

Awareness of at-risk populations, including gender, age, indigent and disease specific patients.

This course includes a survey of various clinical practices of medicine that include: osteopathy, dentistry, psychology, nursing, chiropractic, podiatry, naturopathy, and homeopathy, in order to familiarize practitioners with the practices of other health care providers.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To develop a working understanding of the approach to disease process from an allopathic point of view.
2. To recognize and understand the disease in its allopathic context.
3. To develop familiarity with treatment protocols in allopathic medicine.
4. To prepare students to refer to, and communicate with, other health care practitioners and to deal with insurance companies later in private practice, as relates to western medical diagnoses.
